

DR. ORAGE, FORMER EDITOR OF "NEW AGE" ADDRESSED MCGILL UNDERGRADUATES

Splendid Lecture Given in Convocation Hall—Address on "Social and Political Aspects"—Specialization is Ruining Civilization—Financial Reform Absolutely Necessary—Modern Preoccupation Ruining New Ideas—End of Civilization Soon in Sight.

"Civilization is bound to come to an end sooner or later," declared Mr. A. R. Orage, former editor of the "New Age" and prominent English journalist, when he addressed an audience in the Royal Victoria College last night on "Political and Social Aspects." The speaker decried specialization, stating that it would undoubtedly bring about this undesirable end.

The subject with which he dealt, the speaker said, was an exceedingly difficult one to handle, but he said he would try in the course of his address to explain his subject and show how difficult it was to classify the answer.

In explaining the problem he went on to say that fully human people are few, that we are all overbalanced creatures, and that each in his own way and in his own work is useful. He said that there were three kinds of men who are too preoccupied to accept any new ideas.

Firstly there is the extreme intellectual type, who is deficient in the emotional and physical sides of life. Then there is the artist type, intellectually and practically contemptible. While thirdly there is the practical man, who has no interest whatsoever in either art or intellectual reasoning.

Everybody in the world has some qualities of one of these three classes, and so those who have them to a great extent are not to be blamed. "There are fewer and fewer of the all round type of man that is so desired," said Mr. Orage, "so many minds are preoccupied with special study that they can not consider any new ideas."

He remarked that he had discovered in England during his recent work that the worst people to go to with a new idea are those who should be most qualified to receive it, because the whole of their interest is already preoccupied.

He gave as an example of this the way in which the League of Nations was received in England. The chief opposition came from those who should have supported it, for the very reason that they already had preconceived ideas on the subject. He also remarked that he had discovered this fact in his work with the "New Age". It was commenced as a magazine for the reform of reformers, but it began the labour party's education.

"Sooner or later we will discover that the root difficulty is not to be found in labour or capital or in old reformers, but in the idea of financial reform." This idea he tried to develop, he said, by means of the "New Age". But he found it useless to suggest it to either business men or economists, and only a few leisure-minded men received it. It was not that the idea was rejected, but that it was never considered.

He went on to say that civilization is bound to come to an end from the fact that people will soon be too preoccupied to consider the great problem. He said that he himself gave up his position on the "New Age" because he despaired of engaging minds that were already preoccupied.

He then quoted Matthew Arnold's famous words "Our business as men is to see life and to see it whole," and he said that nowadays people were too apt to specialise and only see certain phases of life.

"Disaster is staring us in the face," he continued, "and the only way to avoid it is to keep the central problems uppermost in our minds."

Mr. Orage said that other civilisations before this one had forced people to specialise, and that they had all fallen in the end. He declared that we had no right to claim the superiority of our own civilisation, as other people like us may have existed before or yet may exist in the future.

"We are but a wave in the sequence of civilisation," he went on. "We are each only one of two thousand million people, one million of whom die every month."

Mr. Orage reminded his audience that everything that one can feel or do or think at any moment is being felt or done or thought by somebody else at the same time. He remarked that the variations of the character of man are enormous and that all deductions are no valid because there can be no all-inclusive ideas of man by those who state opinions.

The speaker then remarked upon how little mankind knows about himself, where he came from, what function he is executing on the earth, or where he goes after death. "Speculation on these questions has no result," he continued, "and it is not important that we should try to solve these problems."

Mr. Orage went on to say that speculation is necessary for the health of the human species, and that open discussion of suppressed problems is good for the soul. He added that every reformer is aiming at the curing of some ill, and that the best way to do this is to reintroduce interest in former material.

"Try to force your minds to dwell on these things," he continued, "and you will soon find results. A period of five minutes every day with your mind free from all aspects of the day, would be exceedingly well spent."

He concluded his address by saying that he would like to be remembered as saying that "there are certain large facts in life with which we are familiar, but do not think about. Each of us should devote some time to their consideration and trust for their jurisdiction."

After the address Mr. Orage spent some time in answering questions that had arisen during his speech.

Prof. Basil Williams, Professor of History at McGill, occupied the chair during the evening. The attendance at the lecture was rather disappointing, only a very small number being present.

PSYCHOLOGISTS HEAR DR. BRIDGES

Postponed Meeting will be Held Tonight

The meeting of the Psychological Society which was postponed from Jan. 7th will be held tonight in Strathcona Hall at 8.15 o'clock.

The same attractive programme which had been arranged previously will be carried out during the evening. Dr. S. W. Bridges will give the principal address, his subject being "The Theory of Personality."

Dr. Bridges, who has just come to McGill from Toronto this year, was born in Prince Edward Island. He took his degree in 1911-12 with gold Medal Standing. Later he went to Harvard where he received his Ph. D. Dr. Bridges has held positions in both the University of Alberta and in the Ohio State University. He then went to Toronto where he was a prominent member of the psychological department.

During the Great War he was a member of the Psychological Examination Board in the American Army, and he also did considerable research work at this time.

He is a specialist in abnormal psychology and he has written several books and many magazine articles on this subject. He collaborated with Yerkes in arranging the scales of writing and research work in different phases of this subject.

Last year Dr. Bridges was at the University of Toronto but he is now at McGill, specialising in his particular subject of Abnormal Psychology. Dr. Bridges is also carrying out research work for the mental hygiene Committee in Montreal.

His address this evening on "The Theory of Personality" is of great contemporary interest as it is directly connected with the subject on which Dr. Bridges has spent such a great deal of time.

This is the third meeting of the Psychological Society for the session 1924-25. The first two took place in November and December. At these meetings the principal addresses were delivered by Dr. R. S. Weir and Dr. W. D. Lighthall.

The society is expecting a large attendance for this meeting to-night. Dr. Tait and Executive have taken a great deal of pains to make the evening as attractive as possible.

F. P. JONES TO ADDRESS COMMERCIALS

Large Gathering Expected at First Meeting of New Year

THURSDAY EVENING

Speaker Has Chosen "The Tariff" as Subject

Commercial Society Activities begin for the new year with an address by Mr. Frank P. Jones, President and General Manager of the Canada Cement Co., who will take as his subject "The Tariff." The meeting will begin promptly at eight o'clock.

Mr. Jones, who has many and varied interests, and who occupies such an important position in the business world is well qualified as a speaker on his subject, a topic which is occupying the attention of all Canada at the present time.

Mr. Jones began in life in the employ of D. F. Jones Mfg. Co. where he remained for five years. The Canadian Life Insurance Co. next claimed his attention, after which he associated himself with the Canadian General Electric Co. at Peterborough. A year later he became travelling salesman for the Nova Scotia Steel and Forge Co. from which he went to the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. at Sydney, N. S. Here he remained for nearly ten years, finally leaving the Steel business for the position of General Manager with the Canada Cement Co. His present position is General Manager and President of that company.

He is also President of the Consumers Glass Co. and director of several other companies.

With a vast wealth of experiences as a source of reference, there is little doubt that the Undergraduates will greatly benefit by listening to Mr. Jones. The Commercial Society has been very fortunate this year in their choice of speakers.

ELIMINATION FOR DEBATES TO BE HELD

Students Of All Faculties Invited to Try Out

IMMIGRATION

Will be Judged on Five Minute Speech—Entries Close Tomorrow

An elimination contest is to be held shortly in which the seven debaters still needed for the intercollegiate debates and the debate with St. James Literary society will be chosen. This was the decision reached last night at a meeting of the Literary and Debating society executive. Students of all faculties are invited to enter their names for the contest. All entries must be made by tomorrow at six o'clock, and names are to be submitted at the office of the secretary of the Student's Council, in the Union.

"Canadian Immigration" is the topic to be dealt with by those who wish to try out for the teams. All entrants will be required to speak for five minutes. The date of the contest is as yet to be decided upon and will be made known within the next few days. In dealing with the immigration problem the entrant will be allowed to discuss it from any standpoint that he wishes.

The subject to be debated by McGill in the intercollegiate contests which will take place simultaneously on February 23, is worded as follows: "Resolved that Canada should adopt an immigration policy of drastic restriction similar in principle to one already in force in the United States except as it affects the inhabitants of the British Isles." The affirmative will be taken in Montreal against Toronto by McGill and the negative will be upheld by the McGill men at Kingston against Queen's. The debate with the St. James Literary Society is to take place on the 24th of February and the subject chosen is "Resolved that the Arts would gain under a socialistic state," with McGill on the negative.

Three debaters are needed to take part in the St. James literary contest and two are needed against Toronto and two against Queen's. No definite date was set for the next Mock Parliament, but it was planned by the executive to try and hold one before the end of the month.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO ENTERTAIN MEMBERS

Refreshments Will be Served After Practice in Strathcona Hall

The Choral Society will hold its next meeting in Strathcona Hall and preparations are being made for refreshments and entertainment afterwards. The Society is doing very creditable work. The leader has said however that unless a steady attendance at practices, which are held every Thursday at eight o'clock in the Conservatorium, it cannot do itself justice in the concert to be given at the end of March, and that it will not be possible to broadcast a concert. People who have been to some of the practices have been urged to come again next Thursday and keep coming the rest of the year.

It has been hoped that the social part of next practice will bring scattered members who have dropped out, but would like to come again. Those who intend only to come once are not encouraged because a regular attendance is all that is helpful for progress especially in part songs. A hearty invitation is extended to any one wishing to become a steady and active member of the Society to attend the meeting at Strathcona Hall to-morrow at eight o'clock.

LLOYD HAS RELINGUISHED PREMIERSHIP

Reform Caucus Elects Spectator as Government Leader

BUSINESS PRESSURE

Many Rumors Current Regarding Coming Sessions—Coalition Government

The Right Honorable Arthur Lloyd has resigned his position as head of state. The Right Honorable Jack Spectator succeeds him.

The news was made known yesterday at a special caucus of the Reform and Rational parties. In which the coalition parties discussed the problems facing them, and accepted with the greatest regret the resignation of the Rational leader, who following his great success in bringing in a speech from the throne which went through by one vote found it necessary to pass on his burdens to another man. The Rt-Hon. Spectator was unanimously elected.

"My resignation will no doubt come as a surprise to my many followers," declared the retiring premier to a reporter following the caucus. "And yet it could not be avoided. I am hard pressed. My soap factories at Palmolive must be attended to. I have determined to clean up the country. I cannot handle affairs of state while under this heavy pressure. I could do nothing else but resign and let someone else do the work." The old battler for Rationalism here smiled and expressed his satisfaction at the new appointments. First Lord Rector to be a British Subject—Term of Office For a Period of Three Years—Nominations Must Be Signed by at Least 100 Students—Amendments will Be Brought Before Student Body on Feb. 4th.

Revision and amendment of the constitution of the Students' Society occupied the attention of members of the Students' Council at a lengthy session held yesterday. The proposed changes will be submitted for discussion and approval at a special meeting of the Students' Society on February fourth.

Chief among the proposed amendments is an article providing for the establishment of a Lord Rectorship at McGill. According to the specifications of the amended constitution the first Lord Rector will be a British subject, and he, and all subsequent holders of the office will be elected for a period of three years. Previous to the election nominations signed by not less than one hundred students will be submitted to the Students' Council.

In the revised articles the status of theological students in the Students' Society is clearly defined. Any student in any of the affiliated theological colleges who pays the universal fee at the beginning of the college session becomes a member of the Students' Society having all the privileges connected with such membership.

All nominations are subject to the ratification of the Students' Council and the Principal of the University who shall first obtain the consent of the nominee.

(b) Election shall be by ballot on such date within two months after the date of nomination as the Council may decide.

3. The first holder of the office shall be a British subject.

(4) — ARTICLE IV. — B. The Secretary-Treasurer shall be chosen by the Executive Council to hold office for the current year, the continuation of the agreement depending on ratification by each successive Council.

He need not be a member of the Society and may be paid a salary.

(7) — ARTICLE V. Sec. 2. G. The Council shall have the power of supervision over all Undergraduate Societies and all clubs not falling under the control of the Athletic Board. Delete and substitute: The Council shall receive from the University all sums payable under Article VIII. Section 1 except the amount payable to the Athletic Board. (Continued on page four)

MCGILL PLAYED FIRST INTERCOLLEGIATE RUGBY GAME WITH HARVARD

It was a "Momentous" custom of "bowling out" bestowed on one at Harvard. Everyone talked of the exciting series of football games with McGill University. The first games of Intercollegiate Rugby played in this country and the contest which led directly to the present intercollegiate game.

But 1874 was also an important year for another reason. A new wing had been added to the Memorial Hall, to house the "commons," an institution first established in 1656 by the Pilgrim Fathers. So even in 1874 the "commons" was an old institution with which were connected many interesting legends. In the old days attendance was compulsory. The food was not always of the best, and there were many bitter clashes between students and authority. There were bitter rebellions, like the one which Sir Frances Bernard put down by appearing wrathfully before the student body and delivering a speech "destined to become lost to the price-less University memorabilia." There were "bread battles...the devastating coffee?"

But "Men" has fallen into evil days. In the rush and whirl of modern academic life, eating is no longer considered one of the minor arts. The pleasing, leisurely and gregarious commons life has been supplanted by the hurried rush of the "side arm banquet" where one only opens the mouth to answer the query "tea or coffee?"

AVERAGE UNIVERSITY MAN SETS FASHION IN CONVERSATIVE STYLE

Differing opinions from the State street clothier, Ann Arbor's fashion detectors, greeted the statement of the Chicago Clothing Men's convention official who said that the American college man set the styles for the young man of America.

One clothier expressed the opinion that college styles rarely ever became general among the working class and substantiated his statement by declaring that clothing jobbers had two lines of styles, one of them containing examples of the "shiek" clothing popular with the younger members of the working class, and the other the more conservative style worn by college men.

Another merchant declared that the only force stronger than the college in setting fashion was the theater.

All agreed that contrary to the general opinion that prevails outside of college which pictures all students as dressing in an outlandish manner, the average college student was better and more conservatively dressed than most men outside of college.

And the fashions popular here are more standard and unshifting than any others, they maintained. Loose, straggled English clothes have been in vogue at Ann Arbor for three years or more and present indications seem to point to their continued popularity.

All of the present styles have come from England by way of Yale, Princeton and other big eastern schools and have gained acceptance here anywhere from a month to a year after their introduction in America.

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1925.

A LORD RECTOR

The plans outlined some time ago by the Students' Council for the establishment at McGill of a Lord Rectorship, an institution held in high regard by England's more important universities, have developed into a state of completion. The chief duty of the Lord Rector, in fact his only duty, is that of addressing the student body once during his term of office, which by tradition, is three years. The importance of having a person prominent in public life giving to a body of students his opinions on world matters, and the benefits of years of experience in things that are more than mere passing fads, is not to be minimized. The Lord Rector, would, as well, be the representative of the students on the Board of Governors. And aside from the apparent advantages thus to be gained, there is the fact that an old tradition is being perpetuated. Not all traditions are to be perpetuated as such, but one of this nature, which is of definite benefit to all concerned, and which there can be no serious objection, is not one to be cast aside summarily.

The favourable publicity which would attach to McGill as a result of having a prominent British Subject as her Lord Rector is another matter worthy of thought and consideration. The local press has already noted with favor, the fact that McGill has seriously taken up the project of establishing this traditional office. It is looked upon by those beyond the campus as a forward movement and a step in the right direction.

A unique manner, such as this, of introducing to the student body some famed Britisher is one that should make every student support the amendment to the constitution which provides for a Lord Rector, when the matter is brought before the Students' Society on February Fourth. Before that date, thought might be given to the matter by the undergraduate body. The "Daily" has a correspondence column for the expression of individual opinion on all subjects of interest; the pros and cons of this particular phase of our activity should find definite expression in our columns.

MR. ORAGE'S ADDRESS

The bare handful of interested students who were fortunate enough to hear A. R. Orage, the well-known first editor of the London "New Age", at the R.V.C. last night, were treated to one of the most stimulating addresses that has ever been delivered from that sacred rostrum. To many of them it was a new experience to hear a firm and frank expression of a modern philosophy of pessimism. Mr. Orage measures civilization in terms of specialization. The division of labour is only the outward economic aspect of the fundamental specialization, as specialization in thought and ideas is the inner aspect. And it is this specialization which, in Mr. Orage's opinion, makes inevitable the downfall of our present civilization. We are all specialists along one of three general lines, the intellectual, artistic and the practical, in any two of which we are hopelessly at a loss. Our interest is now fully occupied and we are not receptive to the new ideas which are a necessary antidote to the decadent phases of modern civilization. The likelihood of the fall and complete oblivion of our civilization in view of the many cultures now known to have preceded our own, the inadequacy of our knowledge of man, and the absolute impossibility of discerning whence man comes or where he goes, must lead to a sceptical attitude. The only gleam of hope in this philosophy lies in its recognition of a free and sincere contemplation of the fundamental problems of our being. The open discussion of usually suppressed subjects is good for the soul, said the speaker, and it is by turning our mind to a broad philosophy that we can do something to counteract the pernicious influence of over-specialization.

Mr. Orage's address was unique not only because of the remarkable coordination of widely varied ideas, but also because of the striking directness with which they were presented. The fact that they were out of the ordinary, radical and pessimistic, makes them all the more valuable to us who are, perhaps, too snug and complacent in our preconceived ideas as to the permanence and excellence of our civilization.

Mrs. Gunton had just been successful in getting a new maid, and she was determined that she would be as nice as possible to her and so try to get her to remain.
"She'll stay as long as you don't start interfering," remarked her husband, at breakfast.
Later that morning Mrs. Gunton went into the kitchen.

"And did your last mistress help you with the cooking?" she asked the girl.
"Oh, yes, mum; she helped me a great deal," was the reply.
"And now, just tell me how she helped you?" just tell me how she helped you?
"By staying out of the kitchen, mum," was the pointed answer.

"I am feeling fit as a fiddle old man—eating regularly at the Union Cafeteria—breakfast, lunch and dinner. The food is darned good—appetizing you know, well cooked and all that and the prices are low. I don't see how they do it, but anyway it's all to the good.

"Old" Boys to Clash in Fast Game With McGill Seniors

To-day is the last chance for those wishing to enter the Novice Swimming Meet, next Thursday. Anyone wishing to sign up is requested to be at the K. of C. natatorium to-night at 5.0 p. m. Absolutely no past entries will be received. A good number have signed up already and heats will be necessary in at least two of the events. It will be the most promising meet ever held and there is much new material.

Commerce and Medicine have not entered a relay team so far, but it is hoped they will do so to-day. The following are the recent entries.

The exhibition polo game between the "Old" Boys and the senior team is expected to be a serious exhibition. If the strenuous training the old boys are going through is of an effect.

Further details regarding the members of the team and the line up will be published as soon as it is definitely known who has signed up. This game will probably bring together the greatest collection of water polo stars in the country. With a few exceptions all the regulars have played on one or more of the Dominion Championship teams. As the game is to be played under the regular inter-collegiate rules, which allow substitutions and as there will be plenty of spares, the game is expected to be a fast one from start to finish. There will also be some added attractions in the shape of exhibition races, etc., by intercollegiate and Dominion Champions.

The final programme will be given in the Daily as soon as the entries and players have been arranged.

The swimmers had a fast and snappy workout on Monday night and from the style the various events will be very closely contested by the new men in the swimming meet.

A large number of men are expected to turn out to-night for practice and Mr. Ernst has asked those who are swimming next Thursday to turnout whenever possible.

REVOLVER CLUB BEGINS PRACTICE

Many Marksmen at Highlanders' Range Last Night

The McGill Revolver Club's activities for the year commenced with an opening shoot yesterday evening in the Highlander's revolver range on Bleury Street. The practice was held from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., and for an opening meeting, the turnout was very good. Over twenty were present, about half of whom were newcomers, and the remainder, some of last year's members. The club has some very good material and it is expected that after a few practices, a very creditable team will be turned out. Many of the members are quite good shots and are only in need of some practice in order to make very high scores. The two highest scores were made near the end of the meeting one of which was 85 out of a possible 100 and the other 173 out of 200, and much better is expected in the near future. The next practice will be from 5 until 7 on Friday, Jan. 23 in the Highlander's range on Bleury St. near St. Catherine St. All those interested in revolver or pistol shooting are urged to be present. Those who have revolvers or pistols of any calibre are asked to bring them, and those coming without guns will be gladly given the use of some of those already there.

An undersized Italian was married to a swarthy German woman. Recently he received a black hand letter which read: "If you don't give $1,000 to our messenger who will call Sunday for it we will kidnap your wife."

He replied promptly: "I do not have the $1,000, but your proposition interests me greatly."

"Has Pat McGuire really turned Socialist?"

"Sure. He thinks this voting for a man who's in jail is a great thing. He says he wished someone had done it for him."

GOOD HOCKEY IN INTER-CLASS GAMES

First Four Matches Were Well Attended

Judging by the interest shown in the two opening games of the Inter-class Hockey League Monday afternoon, the remaining eighteen games will be well attended. Monday's game between Med. I and Law I went to the doctors by a 2 to 0 score. The second match ended with Arts I on the heavy end of 3 to 1 score after a hard struggle with Science I.

Of yesterday's two games, the first proved the more interesting. Dent II winning from Med II 2 to 1.

The second match, while more one-sided than its predecessor, the score being 6-1, gave opportunity for the display of considerable talent. Brain for the winners and Bazin for the losers both attracting considerable attention. All games took place on the campus rink, between the hours of five and seven.

This evening, Law II and III meet Med. III at 5 o'clock, while Arts III encounter Theology at 6 o'clock.

RIFLE CLUB PREPARES FOR THE C.I.R.A. MEET

With the approach of the first of the three Canadian Intercollegiate Rifle Association matches, increased interest in the work of the McGill entry is being shown. Among the colleges participating in the contest are McGill, Queens, Toronto and the Royal Military College.

The cup is at present in possession of McGill, and the Red and White sharpshooters are working hard to retain it in the contest Saturday. The match will take place in the Montreal High School.

Many of those responsible for the high scores shot by McGill last year have left college during the past season, and some anxiety is being expressed over their successors. Those in charge, however, feel confident that the team will uphold the standard set by the McGill entry last year.

LORD RECTOR AT MCGILL

The action of the Students' Council of McGill University, in taking the first steps in a movement which can scarcely fail to reflect credit and honor on McGill is to be commended. At a meeting by unanimous vote they asked that some man prominent in learning or in public affairs be asked to be Lord Rector of the University. The office is a recognized part of university life in Great Britain, and some of the most illustrious men of the last half century have been proud to stand for office on the invitation of the student body. Such an invitation from McGill might well be unanimous, at least for the first few years, and it is safe to say that there is not a man of prominence in any sphere in Britain who would not be proud to be honored with such an invitation. The proposal indicates that the students of old McGill are proud of their alma mater and are anxious to extend its rapidly growing tradition as one of the great Universities of the British Empire. A rectorial address by such a man as Lord Balfour, Lord Haldane or Lord Grey to mention only a few of the outstanding men of Britain today, would mark a red letter day in the history of McGill.

I saw her on the hill one day,
Beneath a shade-tree sitting;
I tried to catch her ruby eye—
She only kept on knitting.

We met, I loved. On bended knee

PLANS FOR ARTS DINNER COMPLETED

R. S. Calder, K.C. Will be Guest Speaker

AT MOUNT ROYAL

Tickets for Banquet Will be Placed on Sale To-day

The final plans for the Arts Dinner have been drafted. The tickets will be placed on sale to-day, when a heavy demand is expected. Those who plan to attend the banquet have been asked to see their class representatives on the Dinner Committee before it is too late. As previously announced, the banquet will be held at the Mount Royal Hotel, on Thursday evening, Jan. 29th at 7.30.

R. V. Fortune, President of the Arts Undergraduate Society, will officiate as toast-master. The guest speaker will be R. L. Calder K. C., whose powers as a lawyer and orator is well known.

The excellent program arranged has aroused great interest on the part of students in Arts, and the attendance already promises to be greater than last year. Sir Arthur Currie, Dean Mackay, and Dr. Leacock have also consented to address the students.

It is definitely stated that the tickets will cost two dollars each. They may be procured from Class President and from any one of the following: R. V. Fortune, W. F. Sheppard, M. Lidstone, C. E. F. Jones, Lawrence Hart, Hugh Macphail, and W. Murchinson.

The meeting of the Economics Club which conflicted with the date of the Arts Dinner, has been postponed.

GREAT NEGRO CHEMIST

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer)
Intellect manifests itself in adaptable and congenial soil; it reeks nothing of race or condition; it flowers in the abode of poverty and in the palace of opulence.

Just now the world is amazed over a discovery by a negro chemist, George Washington Carver, head of the department of scientific research at Tuskegee Institute. Humbly this son of slave parents submits that his methods are inspired by God.

The price once paid for this man was a race horse, valued at $3000. He worked his way through high school became a bachelor of science. He served as a member of the faculty of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts and became a teacher in Tuskegee, and is now director of its department of research. He is a member of the Royal Society of Arts, in London, and in 1923 was awarded the Spingarn medal for notable achievement.

From a slave boy to eminent distinction among the most conspicuous scientists in the world is a record suggestive of dramatic significance and should command admiration.

This man's work has been important, his success nothing less than astounding. There may be cynics who will smile when he tells us that he admits no books to his laboratory, finding there divine guidance and revelations when he needs them but they will not be able to minimize the importance and usefulness of the results he has achieved.

Dr. Carver has derived one hundred useful products from the lowly sweet potato and more than one hundred and fifty from the peanut. These products include rubber, coffee, candy dyes, paste, paint, starch, vinegar, ink, shoe blacking and molasses. He produced the yolk of an egg from a Porto Rico sweet potato.

What fields of speculation here are opened up: the suggestion of unlimited good supply, or unlimited sources of the world's most essential products!

HELLO

As we go to our classes
On ordinary days
We say "Hello" to all we know,
Because, perhaps, it pays.
But after a vacation
Of say, a week or two,
We yell right out with lusty shout,
"Hello! How's things with you?"

If we could say "Hello" to Everyone we know
Ten times a day, and not once say
It absently or low,
We'd have more friends in college
Than we can ever boast.
But folks would say that that poor
Jay must intend to run for office or something.

So there you are! The Evergreen
She—You had no business kissing me.
He—But hang it, wasn't business.
It was a pleasure.

Red and Black.
More Wood!
Mall's very crowded to-day—I'm overloaded so I can hardly walk," said Scotty the Postman.

"What's all the excitement?" we inquired.
"Correspondence School's havin a rally, and they're makin' a bonfire to each student."

Fists, Falls and Foils

About twenty boxers went through a strenuous workout yesterday afternoon. Running, shadow boxing, skipping rope, punching the dummy, and occasional two round bouts are fast rounding the men into shape for the college eliminations which will be here in a couple of weeks.

"Jed" Merritt, Verne Snow and Schiller all on last year team are out for the first time this season. These men have been busy with studies and exams but are out now and training in earnest to hold their old places on the team judging by the looks of some of the new men out, every position should be hotly contested.

It is rumored that Dan Marshall, the star 160 pounder may go to Boston for an amateur meet which is taking place in that city next month. There is also great promise of another invitation meet to be held in the near future.

VIVANT LE GOURMET!

Germany has its industry, England its stolidity, and America its ingenuity, but to France has fallen the priceless gift of arousing the world to laughter. While governments tremble and nations to the brink of war, a solemn conclave meets in Paris, not to decide the next premier nor to formulate new regulations to assist the birthrate, but to select the best chef in France.

Herriot may wrangle with a recalcitrant Chamber, the Reich may hide away machine guns in every Rhine fortress—but ah, did what a fiasco! What matters is that the debt must be paid? One must eat. And since one must eat, one might as well eat the best, and brave the indignation that man is heir to.

A third world picks up its drooping ears when it hears news of this sort, and breathes a prayer of gratitude. In the midst of turmoil and confusion, there is, then, one nation that has a care for its food, one gathering of experts who may save the universe from dyspepsia. And hearing, the world turns again to its endless labors, confident that come what may, it will at least be well fed.

A MATCH FOR ANY MAN

A Philadelphia concern has brought out recently a guaranteed, non-striking match. The manufacturers claim that so few matches light anyway, it is high time that one is manufactured that won't light at all. The stick of this match is made of rubber, and the tip of a high grade of T. N. T. You can throw it, pound it, stamp on it, hammer the hammer, or crew it, and it will not ignite. It is called the Gawdhelpus Match, and the advertising slogan is, "If she once lights, Gawdhelpus." The makers expect a large field, for their product among the Bolsheviks; and other free thinkers. We suggest to our readers that they keep a box on hand for the man who is always saying, "Gimme a light!"

Sports Legislation

Sports, along with many other forms of activity, are becoming overburdened with legislation. It's just one darned rule after another.

About the only thing an athlete can do and retain his amateur standing in these pure days is to spin tops and possibly this has not been barred because the powers that be have not thought of it. Utah Chronicle.

SKI JUMPING TAKES PLACE ON SATURDAY

McGill and Montreal Ski Club Compete at Cote des Neiges Jump

Arrangements for the use of the Cote des Neiges jump next Saturday afternoon have been completed. The Montreal Ski Club has agreed that any man bearing a Winter Outing badge may be admitted to the grounds and the club house on that day. The jumps will be held at 3 P. M. and not at 2 as stated in yesterday's Daily.

All members of the Outing Club may compete, and it is desired that many avail themselves of this opportunity in order that a good meet may be ensured and interest awakened in the coming big event at the end of February when the American teams will visit Montreal.

In return for the courtesy of the Montreal Ski Club in their agreement with McGill the following information about membership in that club, has been given out. For some years the M. S. C. had the use of the Cote des Neiges hill free of charge. A few years ago, however, they had to purchase it and a large sum of money was spent improving the hill until now they have one of the finest jumps in the Eastern States and Canada. Whereas it used to be a rare thing that jumpers held their landing even in championship competitions it is now rather the unusual occurrence to have a fall.

This club has fostered skiing interests in Montreal for many years, and besides standing behind a good winter sport, members for a five-dollar fee have the following advantages:

(1) The privilege of using for practice purposes one of the best jumping hills kept in condition all through the season.

(2) The use of a comfortable, cheery clubhouse where warmth, society and refreshments may be obtained after a run over either mountain. It is situated upon a car line connecting with all parts of the city, and is in the heart of the very best ski terrain on the island of Montreal.

(3) Free admission to all meets except the championships; a free copy of the Ski Annual and other literature on skiing.

Student of McGill who join the M. S. C. should let it be known that they are from McGill and substantiate what we believe to be our right to consideration in arranging our meets with them.

DENT. '27 DEFEAT MED. '28 HOCKEY BY 2-1

Last night Dent, '27 and Med. '28 clashed in their first interclass game. The score was Dent 2, Med. 1. Although the game was somewhat slow due to the heavy snow fall, it was contested from the start to the final whistle.

Dents started out with a rush in the first period, keeping play near their opponents goals. At the end of eight minutes, Burbank took the puck from behind his own goal, made a individual end to end rush, and from a difficult angle scored Dentistry's first, tally. Four minutes later Dents again scored from a four men rush, Burbanks having received a pass from Thompson.

The first period ended with Dents 2, Meds 0.

At the beginning of the second period the puck was chased from end to end without any result till 4 minutes before the end of the game Oimstrad scored from a skirmish in front of Wayne net.

The game then became much faster. Wayne making wonderful saves for Dentistry, but the final whistle blew with a 2 to 1 score in favor of Dent. '27.

Another Story Without A moral. Planking me on the left during the performance of the "Chauve Souris" were two ladies whose ecstatic admiration for the work of the Russian actors seemed to have no limits—that is, to the persons within ten rows of them. I was tempted several times to ask the young ladies to permit me to view the show without accompaniment from the side. But, every time I turned to make my request their joyous countenances acted as a traffic-cop for me, and I refrained diluting their whole-hearted delight. So that during the evening I learnt all about "these people are so wonderful, not a bit like us" and "I'd just love to know some Russian people and learn some of their ways," and "Their language is so musical," and several other bonquets handed freely and gladly to our slavonic friends. What-ever annoyance I might have felt at the lack of good manners was more than adequately compensated by the satisfaction I derived from finding at least two persons who were so generous in attributing good qualities to an alien people.

Preceding us on our way out were two Slavic-looking gentlemen who were discussing in their native tongue the merits of the show from the land of their birth. They were, apparently, carried away somewhat by their emotion and they gesticulated freely. One of my late neighbours, making a wry face, turned to her friend, "Hang these darn foreigners!" she said. "You can never go anywhere without falling all over them."

This Freedom, I have a friend whose chief boast is that she has emancipated herself from all conventionalities. She has the freest views on such subjects as religion, work, marriage, sex, etc. Yet I once asked her to invite a girl to her home and she refused, claiming that as she had only met this girl once she did not know her well enough to do so.

"Blinks remind me of a woman's skirts."
"I don't see how you figure."
"Well, aren't a woman's skirts around her?"
"Sure."
"So's Blinks a rounder."

Billie—We must keep our engagement a secret, dear.
Thirp—Yes, I'm ashamed of it, too.

"What caused his death?"
"A broken neck."
"How's that?"
"Oh, he was in the hospital with lumbago, and the nurse rubbed his back with alcohol—and he broke his neck trying to lick off."

"Mr. Simp, can you give me the first example of the electric light?"
"Yes, Sir: Noah's arc."

"I am some wild boy. They would not let me in a cabaret last night."
"How's that?"
"Closing time."

"Why so thin, my pretty maid?"
"I'm on a fast, kind sir," she said.
"And how fast are you now?" he said.
"That's none of your affair," she said.

"Closing time."

THE SIEVE

IT NEVER RAINS BUT IT "PORES." A wild looking individual rushed into the dentist's office and confronted him with: "Do they give a fellow Sae here? Hones, now, tell me."
"Yes, sir," said the dentist.
"Can a fellow feel anything at all when he takes it?"
"No."
"Well, I'll take it."
"All right, sir; which tooth?"
"Tooth he hanged! I want you to take off a porous plaster."

ROWING CLUB MAKE PLANS FOR SEASON

One Eight and Two Fours Will be Formed

The Rowing Club Executive met in the Lounge Room of the Union yesterday at 6 o'clock. The meeting was very well attended. Much important business was discussed. A large number of men have been turning out for practices and the coach Mr. Molman has decided that he has enough material on hand to form an eight and at least one, if not two fours. So all those who have been practising have been urged to work hard and the consensus of opinion expressed by the Executive was that vigorous steps must be made to encourage new men to attend so that competition for places in the crews will be as keen as possible and also, in order that any vacancies caused by the absence of out-of-town members during the summer may be filled up as quickly as possible. The Lakeside Club-house came in for discussion and it was urged that endeavours be made to get undergraduates to reside there during the summer. Last year a number of men, some of whom were students, stayed there and were so pleased with the surroundings and appointments of the Club-house and the small cost that they are anxious to return next summer. But the Executive has decided that they will permit only undergraduates to occupy the Club house this summer and have decided to give identification early so as to give students a chance to make their plans for the summer as early as possible. Any one desiring to be accommodated at Lakeside can get any information from Logan the Pres. or any other member of the Executive. The faculty reps. were especially to finish collecting all fees. There are still a few members who have not paid up and the Executive weeks all the money it can get to buy a work coat for practising as early as possible next spring.

LOYD HAS RELINQUISHED PREMIERSHIP

ing of confidence in Spector. Our policies merged with those of the Reform party will be carried out to the very end, he declared.

It is rumoured in political circles that Lloyd found it necessary to resign owing to the many burdens of office which he assumed and the added strain of waging such spectacular battles as have never been engaged in before on the floors of the "Mock."

"Safe legislation, no catering to vested interests, the good of Canada as a whole and not sections of it, and above all a return to days when Canada was prosperous, is what I will aim at in my legislation," the newly elected premier declared in an interview. He spoke in general terms of the coalition government and prophesied many sessions in which the most important matters would be discussed.

No hints came from Spector regarding the coalition cabinet. Many surprises are in store, however, it is reported.

Nothing has been heard regarding the Conservative party, and all rumour of early Dominion elections are not as yet stated to be authentic. The Government, however, plans to go right ahead at the present with strenuous legislation which, it states, is conducted along the right lines, the pressing need of Canada.
